Develop the Population Health Expertise to Thrive in Our Challenging Healthcare Environment

The Population Health Management Academy (PHMA) is a year-long transformation experience developed to train regional physicians who will study and work together to advance healthcare delivery in their practices and in the communities they serve. PHMA will help develop the regional provider expertise required to effectively interact and align with payers and health systems focused on positive healthcare transformation.

Led by seasoned subject matter experts, the program is fast-paced, engaging and especially suited for physicians dedicated to applying solution-oriented strategies to real-world practice challenges. PHMA includes monthly 3-hour seminar sessions coupled with practice-based assignments focused on boosting practice efficiency, efficacy and quality performance.

Program Requirements:

- Seminars and Round Table Discussions: A total of 12 three-hour sessions.
- Structured Monthly Assignments specifically applying PHMA insights at the practice level.
- Capstone Project: An individualized multi-faceted project culminating in an academic and intellectual experience similar to a thesis that extends beyond a report into an outcomes-based strategic initiative.
